A Faith Story from the Andersons

One Thanksgiving David's parents were visiting from California. As part of the Thanksgiving dinner festivities, Gloria got out the mission trip faith forming for more people (not just those on the trip) and an outreach tool to the community. As one pastor noted, the Mission Trip module "moved the trip from being only for the participants to being an experience for the whole congregation. Our congregation now 'owns' the mission trip and that has made it easier to raise the funds necessary to make it possible." This same pastor added how people throughout his city and even from other states were following his congregation's mission trip on Facebook and being blessed by it. When they had the post-event celebration, the vice-mayor of the city came to offer words of appreciation of how the congregation represented the local community in service to the world.

"Grow the church by growing people in faith."

FaithTalk cards so that everyone could share a story. So David's dad, Maynard, read aloud his card that asked about the earliest memory of attending a funeral. Maynard proceeded to tell the story of his mother's funeral. She died on the family farm during a blizzard. It took many of the neighboring farmers to dig out the roads so that his mother's body could be taken to the church for the service. Years later after Maynard had died David found the news clipping of the wonderful story of community care and grief surrounding the funeral service for David's grandmother. David was so glad that he first learned of the touching family story from the lips of his dad, something that would not have happened without the FaithTalk storytelling.

David and Gloria have 6 granddaughters and enjoy using Taking Faith Home, FaithTalk, and Milestones with them on a regular basis as they walk alongside them in their faith journeys.
